

April: “V for Victory” by Lissa Evans

This book was well received by the group; we found it warm and humorous with an amazing array of characters. Set during the closing year of WW2 it depicts the difficulties faced by the civilian population dealing with the privations of war and the new threat of the V2 bombing campaign. Many of the characters were getting on with their lives with great stoicism, also there was bravery and kindness. Many of their stories were very poignant. The author showed great insight and laid out a range of feelings and emotions.
